Doctor Who - Early Adventures - 6.2 - Daughter of the Gods .. Review

----- DAZ ANDERSON

Daughter of the Gods was the second and final story of the sixth series of The Early Adventures, produced by Big Finish Productions. The range's first multi-Doctor story, it was written by David K Barnes, narrated by Wendy Padbury and Peter Purves, and featured the Second Doctor, Jamie McCrimmon and Zoe Heriot teaming up with the First Doctor, Steven Taylor and Katarina to fight the Daleks. When Zoe reattaches an old piece of equipment to the TARDIS console, she, Jamie and the Doctor are very lucky to avoid a collision.

But the place they find themselves in may be even more dangerous - because there they encounter another Doctor, a space pilot named Steven...and a young woman called Katarina who really shouldn't be there. Which an accident by the second doctor had changed the events of THE DALEKS MASTER PLAN and faces choice save 1 life or many to keep time on right path, Take place after THE MYTH MAKERS timeline

A clever story really gets feel of the nineteen sixties DOCTOR WHO well told by each Doctor's companions get picture of both sides that lead the accounts to how the Doctors meet each other, The charters done well catch picture of their world and what could happen if DALEKS not defeated, will the second DOCTOR put time back way it should have been, I guess you have to find out hear the adventure.

People with disabilities have existed since the start of the human race.

In Ancient Egypt people with disabilities were sometimes treated with respect, but the ancient Egyptians believed some diseases and disabilities were the work of demons living inside a person’s body.

In Ancient Greece the birth of a child with disabilities was interpreted as a punishment on the parents by the gods. In Sparta deformed and sickly infants had to be abandoned by law, and a child later found to be an ‘idiot’ would also be abandoned. In Ancient Rome, there were similar views and babies with disabilities could be legally exposed, sometimes being abandoned in clay jars in temples or out on the road.

The Celts were more enlightened and paid taxes to support people who were sick or disabled.

As Christianity spread, charity towards people with disabilities or illnesses was preached. The Church set up orphanages for abandoned children in the 3rd and 4th centuries. But some people still thought that disability was the result of sinful living or that the disabled child was a changeling or a demon, not the real child at all. In 1946 Judy Fryd, a mother of a child with a learning disability, formed 'The National Association of Parents of Backward Children' - which later became Mencap .. Judy Fryd died during October 2000 at the age of 90. Her work carries on through Mencap.

In October 2009 it was announced that she would feature on a new first class Royal Mail postage stamp Social History of Learning Disability

How did Alan Turing break the Enigma code? While there, Turing built a device known as the Bombe. This machine was able to use logic to decipher the encrypted messages produced by the Enigma. ... Looking for these patterns in the coded messages helped the team to calculate the daily settings on the Enigma machines. Joan Elisabeth Lowther Murray, MBE was an English cryptanalyst and numismatist best known for her work as a code-breaker at Bletchley Park during the Second World War.
Born: 24 June 1917, West Norwood, London
Died: 4 September 1996, Headington, Oxford
Spouse: John Kenneth Ronald Murray (m. 1952–1986)
Partner: Alan Turing
Education: Newnham College, University of Cambridge

Turing was prosecuted in 1952 for homosexual acts; the Labouchere Amendment of 1885 had mandated that "gross indecency" was a criminal offence in the UK. He accepted chemical castration treatment, with DES, as an alternative to prison. Turing died in 1954, 16 days before his 42nd birthday, from cyanide poisoning. An inquest determined his death as a suicide, but it has been noted that the known evidence is also consistent with accidental poisoning.

In 2009, following an Internet campaign, British Prime Minister Gordon Brown made an official public apology on behalf of the British government for "the appalling way he was treated". Queen Elizabeth II granted Turing a posthumous pardon in 2013. The "Alan Turing law" is now an informal term for a 2017 law in the United Kingdom that retroactively pardoned men cautioned or convicted under historical legislation that outlawed homosexual

The character of Professor Travers (who appeared in the two earlier Yeti stories) was to have appeared for a third time, but the decision was made to replace him with Professor Watkins as using him would involve paying Mervyn Haisman and Henry Lincoln (who were against their characters' usage following The Dominators), although Travers is still referenced by name several times

Plans a foot for something new to test the waters what might work or not. This adventure the start of what was to come in 1970s DOCTOR WHO United Nations years of the third DOCTOR or the UNIT family known by who fans a well-paced for 8-part adventure, like many cybermen stories of 1960s keep themselves in the shadows before they take over before they attack, the animation holds up well from animation studio Cosgrove Hall, who previously created the webcast Scream of the Shalka, had produced full-length animated versions of the two missing episodes. These episodes, along with newly remastered copies of the rest of the serial, were released on DVD on 6 November 2006. The Invasion was a novelization based on the 1968 television serial The Invasion. .... This novelization is by the late Ian Marter who played the Doctor's companion ... The novel includes the UNIT rescue scene of Professor Watkins not included in the adventure was cut from show for time film reasons at time.

Kevin Stoney who plays Tobias Vaughn. A grate villain will do anything he wants to most powerful man in the world has some great scenes and some nice moments with ZOE and Sally Faulkner showing side Zoe changed traveling with THE DOCTOR able to react with people better make friends be more then she is then before seen as computer with no heart seen in doctor who wheel in space

According to their main website, BRB Internacional was planning a new feature-length CGI film to be released in 2016, but it was delayed for unknown reasons.[1][2] In April 2019, it was announced that Apolo Films has since taken over production of the film.[3] On February 11, 2020, the first image of the film was revealed. It was announced that the film will be written by Doug Langdale and directed by Toni García.[4] The film will be released on theatres in early 2021 under the title Dogtanian and the Three Muskehounds.[5] It will also be released on SVOD.

The series was produced in 1981 by BRB International and Nippon Animation[1] and it was first broadcast by MBS in Japan, where it began airing on 9 October 1981.[4] One year after its premiere, it was broadcast for the first time in Spain on Televisión Española's Primera Cadena starting on 9 October 1982.[5] The partnership between BRB International and Nippon Animation worked so well, that they collaborated in another successful animated series two years later called Around the World with Willy Fog.

The series was dubbed into English by Intersound USA in 1985. As well as dubbing the TV series, BRB also produced a TV movie, which was again dubbed by Intersound USA. The series was first broadcast in the United Kingdom on BBC starting on 3 January 1985. Now given film animated reboot for cinema 2021Dogtanian and the Three Muskehounds (Spanish: D'Artacán y los Tres Mosqueperros) is a 2021 Spanish feature-length computer-animated film based on the 1981 television series of the same name, that in turn is based on the classic 1844 Alexandre Dumas story of d'Artagnan and The Three Musketeers. Directed by Toni García and with screenplay by Doug Langdale, it is produced by Apolo Films (BRB International's cinema studio) and Cosmos Maya.

Really catch feel of classic animated series at same time create something new and fresh for new bunch of kids and hope full in love with it as I did d in 1980s. I love the humor in film without spoil story done good job with plot fit well for 85-minute film If you enjoy film and want more on YouTube channel <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WMv4VaxTmmE&t=985s>
